

FOLIPRIME

An easy, yet powerful hair support formula that is made from amazing oils and plants.

FoliPrime is a liquid hair supplement that promotes hair growth on the scalp. It may take 9 weeks or more for the treatment to have a substantial effect, but it may aid thinning and balding hair.

What exactly is FoliPrime?

Loss of hair is very frequent, but thinning patches on the scalp are a different story. Although both men and women experience hair loss, the majority of hair restoration treatments are currently marketed to males. It might be difficult to find a product that works for both men and women, but FoliPrime wants to serve everyone.

FoliPrime mixes various oils and other substances for daily absorption into the scalp and hair. Users will not need to eat anything in order to stimulate hair growth from the inside; they simply need to apply 2 to 3 drops of FoliPrime to the scalp and massage the oil into the scalp with their fingertips.

How can FoliPrime assist?

With the appropriate combination of components, users may regenerate hair for a healthier, fuller scalp. The FoliPrime components consist of:

MCT oil Argan oil

Tea tree oil

Lemon essential oil

Castor oil

Turmeric oil

Candelilla wax

Niacin

Biotin

Nettle plant extract

Cayenne pepper extract

Zinc oxide

Hyaluronic acid

MCT oil helps strengthen the hair. It functions similarly to coconut oil in that it is an effective hair moisturizer. It is a natural treatment for dandruff and other dryness-related disorders.

Argan oil maintains hair's hydration and protects it from the everyday harm it may sustain. It minimizes broken ends and enhances the condition of the scalp.

Tea tree oil is safe for use on all hair types and textures. However, it has no direct relationship with hair growth.

Lemon essential oil is a well-known astringent that prevents hair loss. It decreases fatigue and strengthens hair that may have thinned owing to inadequate nourishment.

Castor oil fortifies hair strands, which may help nourish scalp dryness. Omega-6 and omega-9 may promote hair growth and decrease inflammation.

The usage of turmeric oil helps prevent against hair loss. It lowers inflammation, which is very beneficial for stimulating hair growth.

Candelilla wax may be substituted for beeswax in hair products. It inhibits the accumulation of oils and other liquids, hence preventing their separation within the formula.

Niacin supports healthy hair development by increasing blood flow. It offers more oxygen to the hair follicles, is particularly useful for those with alopecia, and promotes greater thickness.

Biotin is a protein that promotes hair development in humans. It promotes keratin synthesis, hence encouraging hair follicles to produce more hair.

Extract of stinging nettle promotes the development of cutaneous papilla cells. It is an effective treatment for early hair loss, however some individuals combine it with scalp massage.

Capsaicin, found in cayenne pepper extract, stimulates the hair follicles. This maintains the hair's strength and health, while safely boosting its volume.

Zinc oxide enhances the immune system and promotes hair regrowth for users. It may be used topically to maintain healthy hair and skin.

Hyaluronic acid is often used to increase hydration, which is essential for maintaining healthy, nourished hair.
